Unusual Intelligence of "Lady Olga"
Shown In Many Ways.
Lynchburg, Va., January 28.—"Lady Olga," the beautiful combination mare, belonging to M. C. B. Ward, died recently from an attack of pneumonia.
Her unusual intelligence was shown in many ways. One day Mr. Ward rode out on Rivermont Avenue to see a friend, their being no hitching post,
he tied her half a square from the house,
and much to his surprise when he returned, he found her patiently waiting at the gate for him. She had broken the chain and followed him. Her devotion to her master was remarkable, and Mr. Ward feels keenig the loss of this friend. It will be remembered that several years ago, Mr. Ward had the misfortune to lose his fine stallion.

Conductor Injured, but None of Passengers Hurt.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
Danville. Va., January 28.— At 5 o'clock this morning there was a nearserious wreck at what is known as the "Fifteen Degree Curve," between Alken Summit and Boxwood, on the Danville and Western railroad. The train, well filled with passengers, was traveling fast, and while rounding the curve the rear cars were swung from their trucks on to the road bed. Captain J. J. Fulton, of Stuart, conductor of the train, sustained two fractured ribs and abdominal injuries. None of the passengers was hurt. Traffic was delayed several hours, but the track was cleared by 5 o'clock.

Atlantic City, N. J. January 28.—
President-Elect Wilson to-night attended a farewell dinner given in his honor by members of the State Senate. Republicans and Democrats alike attended, and only members of the Senate were admitted. As it was intended that none of the speeches was to be reported, an informal program of fun and diversion was arranged.

The Senators accompanied the Governor on a special car from Trenton and planned to return with him early to-morrow to the State house.
